Notice of Reversion

Dear Leyvto,

I hope this message finds you in the best of spirits. Further review and discussion at our Senior Leadership Team stage brought out that the decision to push your application further into the next stage was wrong. Unfortunately, this was due to some internal mix-up with our processes, for which we are truly sorry and apologise for any confusion or concern this may have caused.

We would like to bring into focus that your application needs further deliberation mainly in view of the points raised by you at the time of induction, and our internal discussion with respect to the use of Artificial Intelligence in your responses. We fully understand this may be frustrating or disappointing to you, and we are truly sorry for any stress or uncertainty this may cause.

Meanwhile, we invite you to go through the current openings in our organisation for other posts that you might be interested in. We have kept your details in our data bank and will surely get in touch with you when an opportunity arises that best suits your profile. Let us again offer our sincerest apologies for this misunderstanding and thank you for your kind understanding and patience throughout the process.

Kind regards,
Mr M Langstaff
